When people think of Alzheimer's disease, they often picture someone who requires long-term care, has difficulty remembering names and faces, and is struggling with daily tasks.

And while those more severe symptoms are common as the disease progresses, most people start their journey with memory loss with less acute symptoms, either with a diagnosis of mild dementia or Mild Cognitive Impairment.

They still present unique challenges for caregivers, as their loved ones may not fully accept or understand their diagnosis and its implications, and therefore may be reluctant to make necessary changes to their day-to-day lives.

South Lake Tahoe leads the way as city council approves water bottle ban

News - Thursday, September 22, 2022 - 8:45am

Paula Peterson, SouthTahoeNow.com

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE, Calif. - In 2016, the City of San Francisco was the first American municipality to ban the sales of water that comes in plastic bottles. At the time it was called a bold move that was building on a global movement to reduce the huge amount of waste from the billion-dollar plastic bottle industry.

South Lake Tahoe was an early adopter of the single-use plastic bag ban, as well as bans of single-use plastic, styrene, and straws.
