As the result of numerous training sessions over a period of the past three years, Karon Crowley, Alzheimer's Care Unit director at Golden LivingCenter-Harrison, has been awarded the distinction of being a Certified Dementia practitioner.

Crowley's activity director certification, earned in 1986, was included in the criteria necessary for the dementia practitioner certification. She began her career as an activity director at Kennedy Nursing Center in Kennedy, Texas. Since then she has held that position at Eureka Springs Nursing and Rehab and Hillcrest Home, accepting the position of social activity director at Golden LivingCenter-Harrison (formerly Harrison Nursing Center) in 2001.

Crowley states that she wouldn't exchange her experience working with the elderly for anything in the world.

"It isn't just a job. I love working with our residents every day," says Crowley.

Crowley has been married to Dwight Crowley, pastor of the Everton Baptist Church, for 36 years. They have a daughter, Michelle Phelan, and a son, Michael. There are six grandchildren.

During her limited leisure time, Crowley enjoys her church work and cooking, especially for her husband, children and grandchildren on Sundays after church.
