Oklahoma Healthy Aging Initiative will host a cooking demonstration at 10 a.m. Friday at Downtown Kitchen Store, 401 S. Grand.

J.R. Adams, former chef at the Sage Room, will share his expertise through preparing an Italian dish that is economical, healthy and easy to make.

Registration is free, but is required to attend. For more information or to register, contact Johnnie Burgess at (580) 297-5137.

OHAI will host a certified dementia practitioner seminar at 8 a.m. Oct. 7 in the Oak Room in Independence Tower, 302 N. Independence. The daylong seminar is required to obtain the CDP certification through National Council of Certified Dementia Practitioners, and will include modules on diagnosis, treatment, communication, paranoia, hallucinations, wandering, aggressive behaviors and personal care.

For more information, contact Tonya Rideau, caregiver program director at OU Department of Geriatric Medicine, at (405) 271-8558 ext. 39988 or at tonya-rideaux@ouhsc.edu.

Registration is $185, and is required to attend. Registration includes module handouts and the CDP application.

Register through OHAI at (580) 297-5137 or www.ohai.org.
