Resources and Tools for Professionals

The Clearinghouse on Abuse and Neglect of the Elderly \(CANE\) at the University of Delaware's is a wonderful resource for elder justice professionals. As the nation's largest computerized catalogue of elder abuse literature, it offers an easily searchable, and continuously updated, archive of more than 6,000 entries ranging from citations and brief summaries of peer-reviewed journal articles to memoranda of understanding (MOUs).

The National Council for Certified Dementia Practitioners (NCCDP) will release their 2012 Toolkit on Dementia Education on November 1st, 2012. Visit their home page for more information, and to download the kit after it is released.

A fruitful partnership between NYC elder justice professionals and NYC City Council produced an informational brochure about elder abuse and NYC resources for victims, families and community members. Each City Council member can order the brochure with his/her picture to distribute in his/her district. Click here to download a brochure. (This brochure has information about City Council Jennifer Lappin).

The Domestic Violence Response Team (DVRT) of Staten Island has published a list of resources for victims of Domestic Violence. Click here to download the list.
