

Approximately 90 percent of seniors prefer to remain in their homes as they age rather than residing in institutional settings. This concept of seniors wanting to live in their homes for a lifetime is referred to as “aging in place.” As a result of this new trend, the National Association of Home Builders (NAHB) in partnership with AARP developed training and certification (Certified Aging in Place Specialists) to address the needs of seniors wishing to remain in their homes.

Building Concepts for Seniors are fully licensed insured General Contractors who are specifically trained to meet the unique needs of seniors living independently in their homes. Our Certified Aging in Place Specialists design, develop and install home modifications providing solutions to common obstacles to meet a persons requirements as their abilities and healthcare needs change. A member of Better Business Bureau, Building Concepts President Jim Bond has had over 30 years experience in commercial construction, home building and design. Jim is a Certified Aging in Place Specialists (CAPS). Mary Ann Bond has worked in long term care as Director Social Services. Mary Ann is a Certified Dementia Practitioner through the National Council of Certified Dementia Practitioners and Activity Director Certified through the National Certification Council for Activity Professionals.
